Helping Someone who is Grieving

Helping someone who is grieving...

Be a good listener
Grieving people need to talk about their loss, acknowledge that they have been through a difficult experience. You can’t fix their grief but you can be there, hear their story, and share their journey.

Be a shoulder to cry on
Allow them to cry with you, crying helps the release of emotions and this helps with healing.

Be in touch with them
Drop in, call on the telephone and say “I was thinking of you today” write a letter, send an email, remember special days like Christmas, birthdays and anniversaries.

When someone has experienced a loss, there will be big and small adjustments to be made in their lives. These could bring uncertainty, frustration, fear, sadness and change as each new day comes along. Grief is about adapting to change in life, thoughts, hopes, beliefs and the future.

Be a friend
Often being there is all that is needed to support someone who is grieving.

(Adapted from the writings of Doris Zagdanski)
Supporting someone who is grieving

Someone who has experienced a loss can:

- Feel like being lost in a maze of conflicting emotions.
- Have a sense of losing control.
- Be CHAOTIC.

This is NORMAL following significant loss. Knowing the experience is NORMAL may not take away the pain, but will increase understanding of what is happening. It is important to know you will recover, that it will get better.

Examples of significant losses

- death of a significant person
- divorce /separation
- relationship breakdown
- retrenchment/unemployment/retirement
- loss of health/amputation/organ loss
- loss of homeland/culture/language
- loss of a pet
- loss of possession/burglary/car theft
- disability/loss of independence
- infertility
- miscarriage-abortion-stillbirth
- adoption
- stolen generation/loss of identity
- losses associated with caring for someone with a chronic or life threatening illness
- loss of dreams/expectations/hopes

After a loss all of these experiences are NORMAL...
